YNITU Elects New National Office Bearers

The Young Nurses Indaba Trade Union (YNITU) has elected a new team of National Office Bearers following the union's National Congress held today in Johannesburg.

The congress marks an important milestone for the organisation, which was placed under administration two years ago. Despite the challenges faced during this period, the union has once again demonstrated its resilience by successfully convening its National Congress and electing a new leadership.

This achievement is a testament to the fundamental principle that a trade union belongs to its members and, ultimately, depends on its members and members alone. The resilience of YNITU reflects the strength, determination and commitment of its membership.

The election of the new leadership therefore marks a new era for YNITU, one defined by renewed organisational strength, decisive leadership and an unwavering commitment to restoring hope and advancing the interests of the working class.

As YNITU enters this new chapter, the newly elected leadership carries the responsibility of strengthening the organisation, deepening its connection with its membership and ensuring that the union remains uncompromising in defending workers against exploitation, injustice and attacks on their rights.

Newly Elected National Office Bearers

- President: John Dzakani
- 1st Deputy President: Nontethelelo Mhlelembane
- 2nd Deputy President: Gloria Moitsi
- General Secretary: Bafana Tshabalala
- Deputy General Secretary: Maria Mtwesi
- Treasurer General: Ronald Makhado

The newly elected leadership is expected to build on the organisation's resilience and work collectively with the membership to advance the objectives and mandate of YNITU.

We are YNITU, the most militant, radical and no-nonsense trade union.
